

Two candidates are running for Prime Minister of the UK; Liz Truss and Rishi Sunak. This is what the “Kerry Theory” shows for the results of the Election on September 5, 2022.

Rishi Sunak is without question the more highly skilled of the two candidates. He has qualities of self-reliance, is well organized, and has the ability to work on long-term projects. He favors stability in every situation. For example, Rishi Sunak urged the easing of COVID travel restrictions as they were beginning to damage the country’s tourism industry and overall economy. His strong Neptune placement influence gives him more insight.

Liz Truss without question has the credentials, but her chart shows her views are more driven by politics. In a television interview, she stressed that all of her staff must be vaccinated and when asked about the backlash and possible damage caused by the vaccines, the answer was that this was not yet addressed. What she was really saying is that it is not the proper stance (she’s a politician).

Her chart shows she can be very demonstrative and strong about her views, but you have to wonder what her views are based upon. In August 2022, while competing for the Conservative Party leadership, Truss said: "I share the values of the Christian faith and the Church of England, but I'm not a regular practicing religious person." (again, a politician’s response).

Let’s examine these two charts together for this day in time (September 5, 2022). You see a “negative” aspect appearing on both charts because that is what is occurring on September 5. Some people will be affected and for others the aspects will not operate. Here are some of the reasons.

Liz Truss

In Liz Truss’ natal chart, you see this same aspect of Mercury “negative” Jupiter, which is a duplicate of the natal chart.

When the natal chart agrees with what is presently occurring, the natal characteristic is operational. One of the most obvious testimonies of this aspect is the tendency to take too much for granted. You stand by what is in place without investigating alternatives or reasons.

Continue looking at Liz Truss' chart below, and you see transiting Mercury in Libra shares the same SIGN as her natal Pluto in Libra (notice they are very close; within the 3.5-degrees allowed). Planets in the same SIGN only need direction for the energy to flow; it is just like wiring that needs a connection.

Transiting Pluto is 180-degrees "negative" to her natal Mercury during this time frame. Mercury "negative" Pluto causes an individual to lose control of events or situations. This aspect causes extreme mental distress.

In Liz Truss' chart you see transiting Moon 90-degrees her natal Pluto. Loss of public support.

Both candidates have this operational on election day.

However, in Rishi's chart the transiting Sun in Virgo is in the same SIGN as natal Saturn and his natal Sun is 120-degrees natal Saturn. The basic nature of a "positive" Saturn is "effort" that is practical, patient, serious, constant, definite, organized, self-reliant, and always solid and secure.

Looking below transiting Neptune changing SIGNS from Pisces/Aries, Neptune will be in the same SIGN as his natal Moon in Aries. And he has them 120-degrees in the natal chart. Of the two candidates, without question, Rishi has a gift for insight, and his intuitive faculties are better developed (certainly a quality that will help the UK moving forward in these uncertain times).

For all the reasons stated above it looks clear that Rishi Sunak will be the next Prime Minister of the UK. The "negative" alignments in Liz Truss' chart that are occurring during this time frame show us that this is not her best time. Also, worth mentioning, Rishi Sunak has transiting Venus in Virgo during this election, which is in the same SIGN as his natal Saturn Virgo. Transiting Saturn is approaching a 120-degrees aspect to his natal Venus. Venus "positive" Saturn creates an influence which produces a high degree of skill built upon work and effort. Relationships are solid, with faithful friends.
